Do you live on an acreage?

Would you like to contribute to improving our environment and protecting our watersheds?

Much of our hope in the battle for climate resiliency and the preservation of our natural environment is laid at the feet of governments, corporations and farmers. However, as owners of acreages and smaller parcels of land, you can make a significant difference in protecting our waterways, native habitat and battling climate change and at the same time feeling good and having some fun in what you are doing.

The Seine Rat Roseau Watershed District (SRRWD) has information, expertise and in some cases funding to make positive changes. The SRRWD works with landowners in erosion protection, water retention, preservation of wetlands and returning marginal land into land that will support natural environment.

If you realize cutting lawn is not environmentally friendly, you would like to see more trees and wildlife or you are just unhappy about how your acres are being used, SRRWD may be able to help. Check out our website at srrwd.ca or give us a call at 204-326-1030 or 204-425-7877.
